CANDID CAMERA SHOTS

The candid camera snapshots have been outdoing themselves on war pictures. They've made "All Quiet on the Western Front" and that official film of World War scenes look like travel talks.

War is horrible, and they've managed to click shutters on some of the worst parts of it. A desecrated corpse, it must be admitted, is about as candid as anything in photography can be.

The fact remains that this is the negative approach. It's all right to make war horrible, but how about making peace attractive—the positive approach?

Let's have more pictures showing fathers and mothers and children sitting down to dinner together; of kids running down the walk to give daddy a hug when he comes home; of families getting into the car for a Sunday excursion; of mothers embracing their grown sons; and of Americans having a whale of a good time.

Horror snapshots succeed in spoiling a lot of meals for us, but it's the alternative to horror that really counts.

THE FIRST BOUNCE

Another big league baseball season has opened, with public officials endeavoring themselves by throwing out the first ball and thereafter settling down to enjoy the game.

Tens of thousands of citizens have contrived excuses to be on hand, and millions have enjoyed the event indirectly by means of newspapers, radio and the good old word-of-mouth report.

Serious conversation has been suspended to make way for discussions of the probabilities of the big league season and the strategy and luck which will go into the making of pennant winners and close contenders.

It is a never-ending marvel that this happens year in and year out, no matter what else may be going on of theoretically greater importance at the time. The plain fact of the matter is there isn't anything of greater importance to millions of Americans—a circumstance which tells more about the invaluable "bounce" of the national spirit than a mass psychologist could muddle up in a half dozen learned books on the subject.

LIKE A FAUCET

Not the least of the interesting things about the new chumminess of the British and Italian governments is the agile flip-flop which Italy's muzzled press has turned.

One day it was squirting acid on John Bull, the next it was showering him with rose water. Incidentally, a similar reversal of attitude toward the United States took place. Oh yes, Uncle Sam and all his doings have been water on the anti-democratic propaganda wheel of the fascists.

Now how in the world does the Italian reader explain this to himself? When truth on Monday is a pack of lies on Tuesday, or vice versa, depending on the needs of the master minds, what's he to believe. Chances are the Italian reader soon learns to believe nothing, which sums up the world's best reason why a gagged press is worse than no press at all. The dictators and the little boy who liked to pretend the wolf was coming invited the same unhappy ending, but the dictators don't know it yet.

SO WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

It is perfectly proper to ask critics of the administration plan of coaxing recovery by priming the money pump with more federal cash and credit what they would do if they had to think up a plan.

They would start, it appears from what they've been saying, by challenging the present official assumption that "private business has shown its inability to function without government assistance."

This is like believing that a school child who is undernourished and nearsighted and falling behind in his school work should be written off as a borderline moron. The modern method is to find out what's wrong and try to correct it. Private business must be helped to perform its function.

In its first drive to bring about recovery by spending public money and using public credit, the government was supported largely by private business. But in the course of the procedure private business discovered what always is discovered when the same thing happens: that government has a way of growing upon whatever it touches, to the extent of stifling it.

It is that discovery, coupled with proof that the new deal's plan to end depressions for all time was nothing more than a political promise, which is the cause of criticism of government today. Private business seeks assurance that government seeks the preservation of free enterprise, not the preservation and extension of its paralyzing hold.

It is that assurance which critics of the administration plan for spending more money would have government give them, not only by words, but by acts.

THE STARS SAY:

For Friday, April 22

A day of much constructive work, with definite progress toward attaining high ambitions, is read from the predominant lunar and mutual aspects. While the energies may be under high stimuli and the spirit of initiative quickened to put over important projects, yet there are vexations, difficulties and confusing circumstances to be coped with.

Those whose birthday it is may be given the incentive to do some very productive work, especially in connection with new projects of importance. Nevertheless, there are confusions, peculiar situations and want of co-operation from superiors or employers to reckon with.

A child born on this day may be enterprising, aggressive and enthusiastic, more willing to be "on its own" than in employment or in co-operation with others, where it may be vexatious, headstrong and intolerant of others' ideas.

MUSSOLINI LION OF THE HOUR IN EUROPE

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

NEW YORK, April 21. — Signor

Mussolini suddenly finds himself the eagerly sought lion of the hour, after a long period of being shunned by many of Europe's very best nations because of his annexation of Ethiopia.

All is forgiven, and the only burning memory of Italy's conquest of the African kingdom is that nursed by little Halle Selassie.

The answer to this is that if Duce has something which many other folk either want to use or seek to avoid.

The Balance of Power

That something is what for most practical purposes is the balance of power in a Europe which is peevish from war-neurosis. The Fascist leader is in that highly enviable position of being useful both to the Franco-British Democratic brotherhood and to the powerful Nazi dictatorship of his own ally, Hitler.

Mussolini can play the game both ways at once and still win—and that is exactly what he is doing.

France hasn't waited for the ink to dry on the Anglo-Italian pact of amity before rushing in to make a similar agreement with Il Duce.

That means a sharp rise in Italy's stock as a power. It is less than eight years ago that the naval conference (of 1930) in London, all but collapsed because of the fierce Franco-Italian fight revolving about Rome's demand for naval parity and Paris' refusal to grant it.

Use Strong Language

Your correspondent was at the conference and can testify that the battle got so bitter it would have been a violation of the law to print the language the two delegations used about each other.

While France approaches the Mussolini camp bearing gifts of frankincense and myrrh, Czechoslovakia has made haste to recognize Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

Czechoslovakia has done this in part to pave the way for similar action by her god-mother, France, and in part for very good personal reasons.

Praha is sitting right upon Hitler's door step. She is eager to strengthen Mussolini's hand in hopes that he may reciprocate in some way if Hitler moves against her.

Sounds Out Yugoslavia

A highly interesting development is the statement in Rome diplomatic quarters that Italy is soundly out Yugoslavia about the possibility of a military alliance. The idea of this would be to prevent any possible German attempt to regain the Adriatic ports which Austria lost in the World war.

It will be surprising if Yugoslavia responds favorably to any such suggestion. The policy of this strong Balkan state has been to maintain a free hand.

Yugoslavia is mainly an agricultural country, and a rich one in this respect. Sixty per cent of her foreign trade is with Italy and Germany, which in itself would impel her to tread cautiously.

Her main concern, however, is her security, and she doesn't want trouble with either of her big neighbors.

CAPTOWN—Young South African knickers can't do sums given them in the examinations of the Institute of Bankers' examinations, the institute's "Journal" reveals. "The standard of work submitted by candidates this year was incredibly low," the examiner reported. "Fewer than one-third of the candidates reached the pass mark."

OUR READERS

BRICKER COMMENTS

Editor, The News:

The reader signing "A Citizen" in Monday's News probably is justified in the complaint, but why single out merely the city meter reader?

If the "citizen," and any or all citizens care to take time to go to city hall and read the letter that I filed with city council March 2, 1937, meeting, asking for certain resignations, and the reasons, and then check up on records of state auditor, they probably would feel that the meter reader was an insignificant part of our city problems.

While I blame Mayor Harroff for some things, I also blame practically every city authority for knowingly permitting certain things to continue, or at least too dilatory to investigate them.

To be frank, I have sent a request to Gov. Davey to oust Mayor Harroff for nonfeasance and misfeasance in office, and requested a special grand jury investigation in our county, conducted by attorney general's office and authorized by the governor.

Readers should be willing to sign their name to any reader's letter, to be fair to other party.

GEORGE ERICKER.

THE GOLDEN RULE

Editor, The News:

I have read with indignation and sorrow the letter signed "Citizen" in your issue of the 18th.

Why any person should make nasty, uncalculated remarks because of the misfortunes of a fellowman is beyond my imagination.

Are we placed on earth for our own selfish desires or are we to extend a helping hand to our brethren less fortunate? Four times a year to lend a helping hand, if necessary, should not harm a person.

Let's be more charitable, doing unto others as we would have others do unto us.

ANOTHER CITIZEN.

OILDALE, Cal.—Lindsay Gann, veteran miner, injured in an automobile accident, was obliged to spend several months in a hospital. To pass the time, he began artistic wood carving, and succeeded so well that by the time he left the hospital he had more orders than he could fill. He has now definitely adopted wood carving as his profession and relegated mining to an avocation.

BERLIN — Germany is making soap from coal, Prof. Franz Fischer, head of the Muelheim Coal Research Institute, revealed in a lecture to the German Chemists' Society. The fats are extracted by an improved process from paraffin, which in turn is produced from brown coal.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland, New York City.

NEURITIS

NEURITIS is one of the most common of human ailments. Yet, it is probable that many of the cases of so-called neuritis are actually something else. The pain of neuritis, for example, so closely resembles that of rheumatism or of arthritis that it is difficult to be sure about the diagnosis.

Neuritis is the name given the inflammation of nerve. The pain it causes is the chief symptom and this varies in degree, depending upon the nerve involved. One sufferer complains of mild pain, while another has pain so severe that he is unable to get on with his work. For example, if the facial nerve is affected, the pain is located in the side of the face having the inflamed nerve. Accompanying this form there is likely to be excruciating pain on chewing, swallowing or talking.

The victim usually describes the pain as burning and tingling. It runs along the course of the nerve. For example, if the facial nerve is affected, the pain is located in the side of the face having the inflamed nerve. Accompanying this form there is likely to be excruciating pain on chewing, swallowing or talking.

If the sciatic nerve is involved, the pain will be confined to the thigh or leg. Sometimes there may be severe backache, with the pain extending down the leg along the course of the sciatic nerve. This form of neuritis, medically known as "sciatica," may be so severe as to interfere with walking.

There are many causes of neuritis. As a rule, it is traced to some focus or center of infection. Diseases of the teeth, tonsils, nasal sinuses, gall bladder or intestinal tract may produce toxins or poisons which attack the nerve.

There may be the history of a fall or blow, causing one or several nerves to be damaged. At times inflammation of a nerve may be traced to chronic alcoholism, lead poisoning or poisoning produced by other metals or drugs.

Within recent years a form of neuritis has been traced to a lack of certain essential substances in the diet. For example, in beri-beri, a vitamin deficiency disease, there is severe inflammation of certain nerves of the body. This particular ailment is caused by a deficiency of vitamin B in the diet.

Neuritis is relieved by the application of heat and is made worse by the application of cold. A hot water bag, an electric pad or the heat of an electric lamp usually diminishes the pain and promotes relief.

Owing to pressure of other business Dr. Copeland cannot answer questions from readers.)

Bargains are plentiful. The ads. will tell you where.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

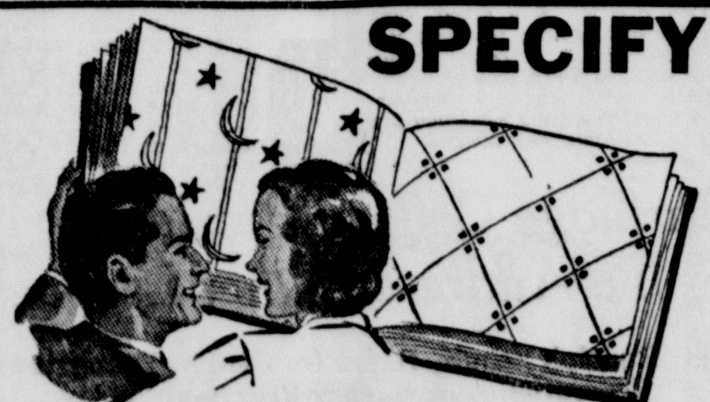

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relate nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 5 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatism, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

CANAL SYSTEM STILL PAYING

Abandoned Network Still Yields Income in Form of Leases

COLUMBUS, April 21.—Under the direction of a 78-year-old engineer, a canal system which outlived its original function more than a quarter of a century ago continued today to pour more than $250,000 a year into the state treasury.

About 700 miles of Ohio canal lanes were being used in 1892 when James M. Borton was appointed by Governor William McKinley to survey and plan the web-like system.

Today, none of the artificial streams is navigated, and only a few actually contain water.

Income From Leases
The income, which has varied little since 1912, comes principally from land and water leases.

"Improved transportation methods have practically scrapped Ohio canals as carriers," Booth asserted, "but rights-of-way purchased by the state between 1825 and 1847 have proven valuable investments."

The original canal system extended for 812 miles, and cost the state approximately $13,000,000. An additional $25,000,000 has been spent for maintenance, operation and improvements.

Since 1860, about $25,000,000 worth of canal properties have been sold to political subdivisions by the state legislature, and more than $1,000,000 has accrued from outright sales. Remaining canal lands are valued at about $15,000,000.

In addition, Borton said, about 90,000 acres of canal reservoirs have been placed in the hands of the state conservation council for public park use, and the state highway department and highway patrol have been given tracts for normal fees.

The two principal canals constructed in Ohio early in the 19th century were the 398-mile Ohio canal, connecting Cleveland, Akron, Massillon, Coshocton, Newark, Chillicothe, Portsmouth and the Miami and Erie canal, which extended 248 miles from Toledo through Napoleon, Defiance, Troy, Piqua and Dayton to Cincinnati.

Each was the mother stream of numerous feeder canals branching off to cities off the direct route.

Traffic Dwindles
Traffic dwindled steadily after 1900, and the death knell was sounded in 1913, when flood waters washed out miles of canal levees.

Since that time, Borton's task as agent of canal lands has been to supervise leases and negotiate the sale of canal properties.

At one time, Borton said, water leases were the most valuable to the state. At present, however, land rentals are surging to the fore.

Water leases are at a premium in the Akron and Cleveland areas, where more than $50,000 is received annually from rubber and steel industries. Water there is drained to the canal from the Portage lakes, and the flow is controlled to assure adequate levels the year around.

While the average income for the last 25 years has been slightly more than $250,000, legislation approved recently by the general assembly paved the way for even greater earnings from canal lands," Borton said.

Productive Future
Borton forecast an unproductive future for Ohio canals.

"The only canal that could be a commercial success," he declared, "would be a wide, deep one extending from Sandusky bay south through Fremont, Tiffin, Upper Sandusky, Columbus, Chillicothe and Portsmouth."

This could be constructed for $100,000,000, and would provide practical water connection between Great Lakes points and Ohio, and Mississippi river commercial centers. Other canals would not justify the expense of reconstruction."

VERBAL CLASH MARKS PROBE

Summer Gerard exchanges Words With Lobby Investigators

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Summer Gerard of New York exchanged fiery words with senate lobby investigators Wednesday, terming the conduct of the investigation "nothing short of disgraceful."

The white-haired treasurer of the national committee to uphold constitutional government leaped to his feet while testifying before the senate committee and asserted the investigators had attempted to "be-smirch" his organization.

Chairman Minton (D-Ind.) broke up the ensuing confusion by bluntly telling Gerard to "sit down."

The clash was precipitated when Senator Schwellenbach (D-Wash.) shouted at the witness that the national committee had "put in charge of your New York office a man who is an ex-convict and then turned the committee's money over to a man you never have seen."

Earlier Gerard told the committee he did not have within his "control" certain records of his organization called for by a senate subpoena.

"I take exception to that," Gerard shouted angrily when Schwellenbach spoke of an "ex-convict."

"You got Dr. Rubely down here to smear us," he declared.

Several weeks ago Dr. Edward A. Rumely, national committee secretary, refused to give records in response to a senate subpoena.

At that time the senate records committee quizzed him about a war-time conviction under the "Trading with the Enemy" act from which he subsequently received a presidential pardon.

"This country has a right to know the character of this man," Schwellenbach told the witness.

Gerard, a brother of James Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, was called by the committee to testify in its investigating of bobbying activities during congressional consideration of the bill for reorganization of the executive branch of government.

A senate subpoena had directed him to bring a list of all contributors of $100 or more.

DILLINGER, JAMES WERE ONLY PIKERS

Compared With Ohio Securities Sharks

But Dan T. Moore, New "Blue Sky Law" Chief Has Been Making It Hot for Them

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, April 21.—Jesse James and John Dillinger were pikers when compared with some of the securities sharks who have tried to raid the rainy-day savings of Ohioans, says Dan T. Moore.

Moore, you probably know, is head of the state securities or "blue sky law" division and has been making it hot for peddlers of bogus and unreliable stocks since he came to Ohio last June from the federal securities exchange commission.

"The large percentage of securities dealers and salesmen are honest, but the small percentage of the unscrupulous dealers are terribly destructive," he said. "One dishonest securities dealer can ruin thousands of persons and do more damage than 5,000 men in some other lines of business."

Ohio Fertile Field
Ohio has to be particularly alert, Moore asserted, because due to its wealth it gets "the cream of the securities sharpsters."

This condition caused Moore to put through the legislature a revamped securities law which he considers has "more teeth" than similar statutes in other states.

Every application to sell securities is being examined closely. The division even suspended sales of an issue of brewery stock because it felt accepted accounting practices had not been employed in making up the company's financial statement.

Moore launched an investigation in which witnesses testified that two former officials of the division profited on sales of stock which the division licensed.

The dealer's license of a firm selling the stock was not renewed, and the complete record of the investigation was turned over to the Franklin county prosecutor.

The former officials are Edward T. Carney, who was division chief, and Edwin Judy, who was an attorney-examiner. They resigned last year.

Unpretentious and quiet-spoken, 30-year-old Moore frequently deceives witnesses with his simplicity.

For instance in a hearing he told an attorney: "I'm afraid we shall have to ask you to leave, sir."

The attorney rebelled and demanded: "Are you asking me to leave?"

Moore replied almost in a whisper: "I'm not asking you, I'm telling you to leave."

The securities chief was born in Washington, D. C., the son of Col. and Mrs. Dan T. Moore. His godfather was former President Theodore Roosevelt.

He spent four years in Germany where his father studied the Germans' artillery and returned to the United States to set up the nucleus of the present artillery system of the U. S. army.

The younger Moore was graduated in 1931 from Yale university, where he studied principally economics and physics. Then he worked for a year in the Louisiana oil fields.

Joins Securities Commission
Next he joined the firm of Roosevelt & Son in New York, an investment banking house operated by his cousins. In 1934 he went to the Securities Exchange Commission and became head of its foreign securities department.

O. E. S. Members Honor Mrs. E. M. Jenkins

Salem chapter No. 334, Order of the Eastern Star, celebrated the birthday anniversary of Mrs. E. M. Jenkins of Winona, past worthy matron of the chapter and deputy matron of District 13, last night at the Masonic temple.

A dinner was served to more than 135 members and guests. Initiatory work followed the anniversary celebration.

The dining hall was decorated with large pedestal baskets of cherry blossoms and bouquets of japonica while bowls of narcissi, and daffodils made the tables attractive.

Past worthy matrons and patrons were seated at one table in triangular shape with a bowl of trailing arbutus as center decoration. The arbutus was a gift from Mrs. Lavona Crumbacher of Columbiana, worthy matron of that chapter, and her mother, Mrs. Mae Dill, to Mrs. Jenkins.

Present officers of Salem chapter occupied another table while members and guests were seated at smaller ones. Favors were tiny orchid and yellow daffodils, made by Mrs. J. S. Perkins, who, with her committee for April, was in charge of the dinner.

Mrs. Jenkins received a bouquet of roses from Massillon chapter officers; a handmade gavel from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evans of Massillon; a large birthday cake, baked by Miss Martha Clay and presented by her father, Carl Clay; and a lamp from Salem chapter and members of District 13.

Mrs. James Andrews, worthy matron of Salem chapter, was presented a lovely corsage by Miss Clay.

Initiatory work was presented in the chapter room which was decorated with lilies, palms and baskets of roses, snapdragons and cherry blossoms. A Bible ceremony followed the initiatory work and the meeting closed with a candle-light service.

Guests were from Lisbon, Lee-tonia, Columbiana, East Palestine, Canton and Massillon.

bankruptcy, as it did eight years ago, it is now holding us back."

Defends Reciprocity

Defending reciprocity agreements as opening world markets for agriculture, Harlan said that "if there is panic here, it is in the hearts of the tariff profiteers who would, if unrestricted, completely destroy our export trade."

Also on the speaking program were Gov. Martin L. Davey and Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati. Democratic opponents in the August primary for the nomination for the governorship.

Sawyer omitted any mention of his campaign but Davey scoffed at suggestions that a primary fight might injure chances of Democratic victory and said: "Certainly we are going to win. In fact, I'd like to invite you all to come up (to Columbus) for the next inauguration."

Of President Roosevelt, he declared that "all polls prove that he is as popular today as he was in 1936."

Sawyer lauded the President as one who was "endeavoring to follow" the principles set forth in the ordinance of 1787 under which the northwest territory was established and declared the electorate would support the chief executive "in his new effort to improve economic conditions."

FILIPINOS LEAN TOWARD QUEZON

Constitutional Amendment Necessary to Permit Re-election

MANILA, April 21—A move to abolish the constitutional ban against re-electing Philippine Presidents has been started in the National Assembly.

Seven assemblymen have filed a resolution seeking an amendment to the constitution, which limits incumbent Presidents to one six-year term. The action admittedly was aimed at permitting Manuel L. Quezon to change his mind, if he desires, and to seek re-election after the expiration of his term in 1941.

President Quezon repeatedly has asserted he has no desire to be re-elected. Some assemblymen, however, have intimated he would change his mind if presented with a petition signed by at least 300,000 voters.

It is believed such a petition could be obtained easily. The President apparently is as popular now as when he was elected by a big majority to take office with the birth of the Commonwealth in 1935, the beginning of the 10-year transition period provided by the Tydings-McDuffie Independence Act to prepare the islands for complete freedom.

Some Fear 1941 Events

With President Quezon's term approximately half completed, many prominent Filipinos are looking forward to 1941 with anxious wondering about the next President. Admittedly the Philippines will face difficult problems requiring skillful leadership when they emerge as a republic without political guidance from Washington.

Many Filipinos are convinced no other leader is as qualified as President Quezon to handle this task. Certainly no other politician has the overwhelming popular support that has been Quezon's in his term thus far.

Labor groups approved immediately when it was suggested that he might be persuaded to serve another term. A speaker at a National Federation of Labor convention expressed fear that "if Quezon is not re-elected, a representative of capital will be placed in the Presidential chair."

Some assemblymen are advocating calling a constitutional convention before the end of 1938 to discuss the proposed Presidential re-election amendment and several others, including one to re-establish a bicameral legislature.

Theater Attractions

Constance Bennett and Brian Aherne in a scene from "Merrily We Live" comedy feature at the State tonight through Saturday.

"Merrily We Live", successor to "Tepper", one of the hit comedies of last season, will be the attraction tonight, Friday and Saturday at the State.

Constance Bennett of the former hit is once again cast in a comedy portrayal, this time co-starring with Brian Aherne who recently scored in the title role of "The Great Garrick".

Prominently cast are Billie Burke, Alan Mowbray, Patsy Kelly, Ann Dvorak, Tom Brown, Bonita Granville, Marjorie Rambeau, Phillip Reed, Clarence Kolb, Marjorie Kane, Paul Everton and Willie Best.

Family Antics

The action of "Merrily We Live" revolves around the antics of the Kilbourne family, as mad, fantastic and carefree a group as were ever assembled under one roof. Each is a rugged individualist, but together they present a united front that is bewildering to their sedate and conservative suburban neighbors.

The new picture marks the first co-starring appearance of Miss Bennett and Aherne.

The Grand will offer "Cattle Raiders", with Charles Starrett in the leading role, on Friday and Saturday. The double bill, "The Black Doll", with Nan Gray and Donald Woods, and "Adventure's End", with John Wayne, concludes at the Grand tonight.

Starrett, one of Hollywood's foremost action stars, is said to have one of his best roles in this picture, portraying Tom Reynolds, husky young cowhand who returns home to find himself branded as a murderer.

His initiated gun, found at the scene of the crime, is the evidence against the young rancher.

New Range Ballads

"Cattle Raiders" introduces four new range ballads written by "Tumbin' Weed" Bob Nolan. The songs, "Happy Cowboy", "Welcome to the Spring", "This Ain't the Same Old Range" and "The Devil's Great Grandson", are sung by Donald Grayson, accompanied by Nolan and his famous musical quintet, the Sons of the Pioneers.

Grayson, Columbia's singing buckaroo, and lovely Iris Meredith head the strong cast supporting Charles Starrett in "Cattle Raiders". Others featured are Dick Curtis, Allen Brook, Edward Cobb, George Chesbro, Ed Le Saint, Jim Thorpe, the famous Indian athlete, and Art Mix.

COLUMBUS, April 21—President Roosevelt's latest spending program is "an effort to buy the fall elections," said Dewitt M. Emery of Akron, president of the National Small Business Men's association, in presenting a charter to a Columbus unit.

"If business knew what to expect, the pump would be fixed mighty quick," he said.

Emery said the current relief expenses are $31,000 a month for 7,000 persons.

FELLER'S ONE-HIT GAME FEATURE OF MAJORS

FEATS OF DEAN, FELLER TOP IN BASEBALL SHOW

Dizzy Wins for Cubs As Tribe Youth Pitches One-Hit Shutout

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The big league baseball races, only just begun, already have supplied more quick color and commotion than a four-ring circus during a thunderstorm. The customers were slightly bewildered from trying to look in a dozen directions at once.

Joe DiMaggio, the last of the youngsters, was rolling eastward in the beleaguered New York Yankees, watching the telephone poles tick off the dollars he had just by trying to buck the most powerful club in the business.

Perhaps Manager Joe McCarthy was the most relieved yesterday afternoon when DiMaggio wired Business Manager Harrow he had accepted the club's sole offer of $25,000 after holding out for $40,000 since Jan. 21.

It will be up to McCarthy to judge Joe's fitness to play. He will be in uniform when the Yankees meet Washington Saturday.

Owner Phil Wrigley, who owns the Chicago Cubs, was gaining confidence that he hadn't been stuck in plunking down $850,000 for Pitcher Dizzy Dean. The Diz did all right in his inaugural.

Bob Feller, 19-year-old fireballer of the Cleveland Indians, had come within a single scratch hit of achieving that noblest of all diamond deeds, a no-hitter, as he shut out the St. Louis Browns, 9 to 0. He struck out six and made two hits.

Among the day's high spots: A home run hit by Gene Moore of the Boston Bees with three on base beat the Giants, 6 to 4; a nine-run rally by the Cubs at Cincinnati's expense, and a four-run, last-inning comeback by the Philadelphia Phils to out-game Brooklyn 6 to 5.

Eyes were glued to the tickers all over the country as Dean went in to prove that Branch Rickey of the Cards hadn't made a sucker out of Wrigley. It wasn't a complete test for the great one's arm, not after the Cubs gave him nine runs in the second inning. During the six innings Diz worked he allowed eight hits and two runs, but he looked tough enough when it came time to bear down.

Jack Russell relieved him after the sixth and finished out the 10 to 4 victory. Tony Lazzeri hit a double and three singles for the Cubs, who raked three Reds for 16 safeties.

Jim Turner, last season's aged rookie sensation, held the Giants to six hits and Moore came through with a decisive homer for the Bees. Hal Schumacher suddenly weakened in the eighth and big Walter Brown went in just in time to take the rap.

The St. Louis Cards looked like they were missing Dean as five of their remaining pitchers took a 9-4 lashing from the Pittsburgh Pirates. Every Pirate joined in the 20-hit barrage.

Fat Freddie Fitzsimmons was the victim of the Phils' spectacular win over Brooklyn. Leading 5-2 going into the ninth after having hurled hitless ball for four innings, he suddenly was rapped for three singles before Max Butcher was rushed to the rescue. Pinch Whitney promptly drove in two runs with a single to tie the score, and then Butcher cut loose a wild pitch to let the winning run across.

Washington won its third straight from the Athletics, 3 to 0, as Dutch Leonard kept seven Philadelphia hits scattered.

Detroit dropped the second in a row to Chicago, 5 to 4. Mickey Cochrane started Vernon Kennedy and Vernon had to be pulled in the ninth.

Bob Feller Not Bothered By Hit That Marred Game

CLEVELAND, April 21. — Home-spun Bob Feller, "robbed" by a scratch bunt of a niche in the no-hit-no run wing of baseball's Hall of Fame, is least perturbed of all concerned over the lone hit that marred his season's debut.

The 19-year-old ace of the Cleveland Indians pitching staff blanked the St. Louis Browns yesterday, 9 to 0.

Catcher Billy Sullivan, a former teammate of Feller, beat out a sixth inning bunt to the young strikeout king for the invaders' solitary single.

"I'm awfully sorry I got that hit," Sullivan told Feller after the game. "As long as we had to lose, I wish you'd got your no-hitter."

But the Redskins were nearly unanimous in the belief that Sullivan actually was out at first. Umpire Ed Rommel ruled him safe, however, and turned a deaf ear to field protests from Feller's colleagues.

Sullivan bunted sharply to the left of the pitcher's box. Feller was caught off balance on the right side of the mound. He made a remarkable one-handed stab, whirled and rifled the ball to First Sacker Hal Trosky. It was a "photo finish."

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By SID FEDER

(Pinch-Hitting for Eddie Brietz) NEW YORK, April 21.—There's a rumor drifting around pro-football circles that Whizzer White has signed that 15 grand offer of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and that the current yes-and-no business is the good old ballyhooy.

What's this report about the Cardinals trading Dizzy Dean to the Cubs on the understanding they could buy Van Mungo from the Dodgers? . . . and that Larry MacPhail backed out because he isn't palsy-walsy with Branch Rickey? . . . Larry says the whole thing is a lot of stuff you slice very thin and put in sandwiches.

Jack Coomb's Duke baseballers have tallied better than 70 runs in their first seven games. . . 51 of 'em against Dartmouth and Richmond. . . which is really powdering that apple.

Now it can be told: All the time Joe DiMaggio was holding out, Col. Jake Ruppert went around telling everybody what a "great boy" Joe is. . . there wasn't a harsh word from either side in all the wrangling. . . that Bobby Feller just about did everything but sell tickets in the Cleveland-Browns game yesterday. . . gave one hit, fanned six, walked six, collected two hits and batted in two runs.

And how about that Tony Lazzeri, with four for five and three runs batted in. . . incidentally, if that was big league baseball the Tigers put on yesterday, they'd better get Tallahassee into the majors in a hurry.

Bill Brandt is prouder than a new papa over the National leaguers 69 wins against 52 defeats in the grapefruit grappling with the Americans. . . Ward Cuff, the pro footballer, back taking a course at Marquette, is coaching the Hilltoppers' javelin throwers on the side.

See thee dept: Just after the Dodgers hit for 30 bases against the Phils Tuesday, Larry MacPhail asked for comment, told the boys, "well, that's as good as can be expected." . . . Diz Dean's arm is as classy as it ever was. . . all he needs is work to condition himself for the nine inning route. . . looks like somebody forgot to tell Greentree stables' Redbreast the winter books had him down at 39 to 1 for the derby. . . ten lengths back of Opera Hat in yesterday's start makes that price about as sensible as jumping off the Empire State building to see if you bounce.

Try the classifieds — a gold mine of value.

FORMER CADDY NOW IS GOLF'S PAY-OFF MAN

Fred J. Corcoran, PGA Official to Hand Out $200,000 in '38

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 21.—He attended and supervised 48 tournaments during the last 15 months, from coast to coast and from Canada to the Gulf.

In addition, he distributed $175,000 in cash last year and arranged events offering $200,000 in prize money for 1938.

All this makes Fred J. Corcoran not only one of the busiest men in golf but Santa Claus to every one of America's touring professionals.

Corcoran's official title is tournament bureau manager of the Professional Golfers' Association, a place he has filled since the beginning of 1937.

Corcoran started as a caddy at the age of 10 at the Belmont Country Club, Belmont, Mass. He was caddy master at 13, and five years later was golf secretary.

Since 1919 he has covered 35 championships for the United States Golf Association, and was Massachusetts state handicapper in 1920. The Belmont club made him a member in 1932.

Corcoran staged the richest golf tournament in the world, a $12,000 affair at Belmont in 1937.

He has handled open, amateur and women's golf tournaments for the United States Golf Association, went to Europe with the Walker Cup team in 1934 and with the Ryder Cup squad last year.

Since January, 1937, Corcoran has handled the affairs of the touring professionals in a manner that has won the respect and admiration not only of players but of club members, sponsors and spectators.

Last year Corcoran managed tournaments and distributed prizes totaling $175,000 for 34 events. This is $30,000 ahead of 1936 and $45 more than the touring professionals drew in 1935.

This year's program, under which 14 tournaments already have been

NEW YORK, April 21.—It is not absolutely essential that a team have a great left-handed pitcher to win a pennant, if the right-handers are good enough, but it certainly helps.

Most of the pennant winners have had at least one great lefty on the staff. The Yanks have had Gomez for years and before him they had Pennock. The Cardinals had Hubbell. The Athletics had Grove and Walberg. The Braves' miracle team of 1914 had the slender Tyler alternating with Rudolph and James in their famous rush to the pennant.

So it goes down through the years. One great left-hander doesn't assure a pennant but he can certainly help pave the way to one. Some teams with a preponderance of left-hand hitters are soft targets for a lefty to shoot at and the team that has such a pitcher is just that much stronger against that kind of opposition.

All of which brings us to the sad plight of the Dodgers who are starting the season with only a raw rookie left-hander who may never start a game.

The Dodgers are the only team in the National league without at least one southpaw of merit—a fellow they can shoot into the breach when teams like the Pirates and Giants come around.

The Giants are strongly fortified with Carl Hubbell and Cliff Melton—two 20-game winners. Did I say fortified? That's putting it mildly, for without that pair the Giants would finish somewhere down beside the Phillies.

And speaking of the Phillies, even they have two capable porters in LaMaster and Al Smith. The Cubs have the veteran Larry French and the younger Clyde Shoun. The Pirates have the aged but still capable Ed Brandt. The Bees have Shoffner and Weir.

The Cards and Reds are well supplied with lefties. Frankie Frisch has Weiland, Macon and Lanier and Bill McKechnie can call on four of the eccentric fraternity — Grissom, Hollingsworth, Kleinhaus and Vander Meer.

But the Dodgers have only the small and untried Al Cohen. Most of the Dodgers' own power hitters are left-handers—Manush, Hasset, Phelps, Rosen, Winsett—so that if they can't show the other fellows any left-handed pitching, the other fellows can and will show them plenty.

Oh, well, a good lefty isn't the only thing the Dodgers lack, so in their case it won't make much difference whether they have one or not.

TRACK GREATS ENTERED FOR PENN RELAYS

Cunningham Tops Program at 44th Carnival April 29-30

PHILADELPHIA, April 21. — The University of Pennsylvania's 44th annual Relay Carnival will attract the nation's premier track and field athletes to Franklin Field on April 29 and 30.

More than 3,000 entries, representing 50 universities, colleges, prep and high schools from all parts of the nation, have been received.

Glenn Cunningham, Don Lash and scores of other nationally prominent speedsters have entered the meet for an assault on carnival and world marks.

This year there will be approximately 70 events, Penn officials announced, with more than 10 hours of running, jumping and field events.

Missouri's first and lone entrant will be Robert Waldran, who bettered 200 feet with the javelin. He is the first University of Missouri entrant in the 4-year history of the meet.

Lash was the outstanding performer at last year's carnival. He now runs as an Indiana graduate. The Hoosier athlete won the invitation mile last year from Luigi Baccali, Milan, Italy, Ernest Federoff of the Milrose A. A., and Eugene Venzke of the New York A. C.

Lash will not run in this year's invitation mile, but will either cover the 3,000-meter or 2-mile distances. He ran anchor as Indiana set a new world 4-mile mark of 17 minutes 16.1 seconds in the last carnival. Trutt, Smith and Deckard of that team are back again this year with the Hoosiers.

Cunningham set the present Franklin Field mile record in 1934 when he topped Penn's Gene Venzke in 4 minutes, 11.8 seconds. This year, his seventh of major competition, he set a new world indoor mark of 4 minutes, 44 seconds.

Navy has entered three relay teams and six individuals for the field events. The Midshipmen are to compete in the quarter and half-mile sprint relays and the Class B mile relay.

North Texas Teachers, with its Rideout twins—Wayne and Blaine—will be back to defend its Class B mile and 440-yard sprint championships.

Lawson Robertson, dean of track coaches and Penn and Olympic mentor, believes that Dartmouth's shuttle hurdle team will break the record in that event. He points to Donovan, Hartman and Watson as three of the best hurdlers in collegiate circles.

In addition to the Indiana world record, five carnival standards were shattered last year.

Indiana replaced Deckard with Miller on the 4-mile team and the quartet hung up a distance medley mark. Deckard stepped out to win the 300-meter steeplechase in record time and Pitt's medley relay team scored another victory.

Western Michigan won the teachers' college one-mile relay for another mark and North Texas Teachers clipped the final standard in the Class B mile relay college championships.

Vanderbilt University of Nashville, Tenn., has entered Buford Ray, outstanding lightweight of the Southeastern Conference.

Among early entries were Princeton, Manhattan, Louisiana State, Purdue, Michigan and Ohio State.

Michigan, outdoor track king of the Western Conference, has entered a strong team. Purdue's Bollemakers will be making their first trip here since 1929, all of which leads Penn officials to expect the most successful carnival on record.

SELECTS SQUAD FOR DUAL MEET

Cope Names 25 Athletes To Compete for Quakers at Rayen

Coach Fred Cope named 28 athletes today to compete against Youngstown Rayen thincads in Salem High school's first dual track and field meet of the 1938 season at Rayen stadium in Youngstown tomorrow afternoon.

Basing most of his selections on performances in the inter-class meet which was held Tuesday and Wednesday, Cope nominated the following to compete for the Quakers in the meet:

The Salem squad will leave for Youngstown at 2:45 p. m. The meet will start at 3:30. There was some doubt today whether Joe Morris, the Quakers' leading sprint and hurdle entry, will be able to run in the dual meet. Morris suffered a possible chest injury yesterday during a playful scuffle at the High school.

The Quakers' first home meet will be held next Tuesday afternoon when they face Boardman and Lisbon thincads at Reilly stadium.

Among early entries were Princeton, Manhattan, Louisiana State, Purdue, Michigan and Ohio State.

Michigan, outdoor track king of the Western Conference, has entered a strong team. Purdue's Bollemakers will be making their first trip here since 1929, all of which leads Penn officials to expect the most successful carnival on record.

Covert and Pauline In Money In Singles Event

Two of 12 bowlers, who competed with the Salem Eagles and Forgotten Five teams in the American Bowling Congress tournament at Chicago last weekend, cut themselves in for a small share of the prize money in the singles event.

Paul Covert of the Eagles team clicked off a 595 series to assure himself of at least some prize money, while Bill Pauline of the Forgotten Five hit 592 to also get in the select list.

Covert combined games of 178-236 and 181 for his series. Pauline had games of 188, 200 and 204.

A 577 series by Bill Finley in the singles also may come in for a small piece of money.

Neither of the Salem teams crashed the money in the five-man event, while the best score of the doubles was made by Finley and Mike Hutter who rolled 1110.

Hutter had a splendid 642 series while rolling with the Eagles in the five-man event, but this score will not bring him any money since his team's score was only 2591.

The Forgotten Five totaled 2315. In chalking up his 642, Hutter rolled games of 217, 214 and 211.

NEWBURGH, N. Y.—Two 300-pin games were rolled within a week by Tony Mack, Newburgh bowler. At the same time, he scored high totals of 843 and 770 for three-game series.

He failed to qualify for national recognition, however, because the scores were not made in a league match.

BOWLING RESULTS

In another special match, Loudon's V-8's of the Pastime league defeated Winona I. G. A. of the Quaker City loop, 2403 to 2332.

WORK IS CURE FOR DIZZY DEAN

So Says Veteran Trainer After Limbering Hurler's Arm

BY FRITZ HOWELL
CINCINNATI, April 21. — Andy (Doc) Lotshaw, who has rubbed and kneaded the kinks out of Chicago Cub muscles for 17 years, set at rest today all fears that an ailing right arm might have been among the reasons the St. Louis Cards shipped "Dizzy" Dean to the Windy City club in exchange for three players and a bundle of cash.

Dean wrecked some of the rumors yesterday as he "breezed" through six innings against the Cincinnati Reds in his debut as a Chicagoan. He allowed eight hits, two runs, walked none and fanned three as the Cubs won their second straight by 10 to 4, with a nine-run explosion in the second.

"Doc" worked on Dean's muscles, and listened to his one-sided conversation, for a half hour after the "one and only" had been taken out for a rest. As Dean stepped into his shower, Lotshaw said:

"There's nothing in the world wrong with that arm, except it's a bit weak from lack of use. The muscles are 'loose as a goose', and he'll win a lot of games for us this season. He may mean the pennant."

Charley Grimm, Cub skipper, said Dean would start the game Sunday at Chicago against his old team mates, the Cardinals. On that angle Dizzy, modest as usual, said:

"I'll be ready Sunday, and will I show 'em something. I've got one game in the bag, so I have 29 to go. I'm going to win 30 this year, just to show some of those guys who said I was through. And those Cards are next on the list."

Along with his prediction that he would win 30 games this season, Dean had several other pertinent remarks to get off his chest. Among them were:

"Charley Grimm is the greatest manager in the game." (This, despite his nomination of Bill McKeechie, Redleg pilot, as the greatest manager in the game, at a luncheon for the Cincinnati club Monday.)

"The pennant is in the bag for the Cubs."

"I never got rubdowns and treatment like this at St. Louis. They had so many players you couldn't fight your way to a rubbing table. This is the best treatment I've ever had."

"The Cubs pulled a couple of fielding plays behind me that the Cards couldn't have made in a hundred years. Herman (second baseman) came up with two that would have been hits against St. Louis."

"Gabby Hartnett! What a difference it is pitching to him. There is a catcher who really knows something."

And to top it all off, Dizzy said the Cubs gave him No. 22 for his uniform not because they figured he was about that caliber, but because his fast one looked about the size of a 22 bullet when it passed the batter.

WOMEN KEGLERS SET FOR EVENT

Masonic Ladies' League Bowlers Open Tournament Friday

Women bowlers from eight teams are expected to compete in the annual Masonic Ladies league handicap tournament at the Masonic alleys tomorrow and Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

The team event will be held tomorrow night with the Ohio Edison, Mullins, Kresge's and Salem News rolling at 7 o'clock and Elks No. 2 and the A. A. A. competing at 9.

The Electric Furnace will not compete in the team event and there is a probability that Elks No. 1 will drop out. Bowlers from both of these teams, however, are expected to compete in the doubles and singles events which will be held next week.

Handicaps, which are being figured by League Secretary Esther Mohr, will be two-thirds of the difference between the bowlers' average and the scratch figure.

Scratch for bowlers who have rolled more than two-thirds of the games will be the mean-average of all averages over 130. For other entries, scratch will be the mean average of the averages of tournament bowlers who have rolled less than two-thirds of the games.

Following the tournament, the ladies will hold their annual banquet at the Masonic temple at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday, May 4.

"EXTRA FARE" by Edna Robb Webster

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Mose regarded Jake closely, wondering if he might be a sleepwalker. "Why—ah reckon yoh could—of 'twas urgent. But he's sleepin' now, an' I'd advise yoh-all to wait till mornin'." Was it sunpin' 'bout gittin' to Los Angeles yoh wanted to know?

"No, tain't," Jake became slightly dominant. "And it is urgent. So yoh'd best call him for me."

"Ver' well, sah, ah'll do dat. But ah hopes yoh makes it right wid him so ah won't get bawled out fer it."

"You won't," Jake promised magnanimously. His sense of importance was increasing rapidly. "When he hears what I've got t' tell him, he'll be much obliged to yoh an' to me as well."

When the conductor appeared his attitude was a mixture of vexation, curiosity and impatience to return to his disturbed rest, which was erratic enough at all times. He looked at Jake as if he wondered whether the man were quite sane. But as soon as Jake had told his story he listened solemnly and patiently, with a glimmer of interest in his sleepy eyes.

"What'd yoh think o' that?" Jake terminated his recitation. "Don't yoh think I should have told yoh right away?"

The conductor nodded. "Absolutely, Mr. Weatherby. And we appreciate your interest in this affair. I'll report your information to the right party at once, and you just keep quiet about it. Say nothing to anyone. Your information fits in with some other things we know, and if you will call the Los Angeles Secret Service Bureau some time tomorrow, they may give you some surprising news."

Jake's excitement and sense of importance soared to new heights and performed some fancy dives which quite alarmed Martha. She feared for his digestion.

The dawn! The morning star sparkled like a diamond in the clear, lemon-tinted sky. Then streaks of crimson stained the east, spread up over the shoulders of the mountains that were topped presently by a jovial red face. The sun beamed down over the world like a traveler who has sojourned in far lands and is glad to return home again.

The Big Chief thundered down the long grades through Cajon Pass, determined to hold its speed record, to make good its boast of saving its passengers six hours for the extra cost of ten dollars. The mountains looked down upon its petty efforts with scorn, as if they knew that with one slight movement they could frustrate its purpose. But they stood aloof, silent and motionless. It was enough if a few of the passengers looked up to admire their majestic grandeur and exclaim at the beauty of their coloring in the warm embrace of the golden sunlight.

Finally the rocks and hills resolved into broad fertile valleys reclaimed from the desert by irrigation—that inverted law of nature which taketh away and then giveth. The early morning air was sweet with the fragrance of dew-wet flowers and fruits, warmed gently by the flood of sunshine. Color—color vivid and glowing in the bright metallic air. Mile after mile of vineyards, olive and walnut groves, and that anomaly featured on California post cards—orange groves against a backdrop of snow-capped mountain peaks.

So picturesque the groves of shaggy eucalyptus trees, towering above their more delicate and colorful fruit-bearing sisters to protect them from any bitter winds which might venture down the slopes from those glistening peaks. Their scaly, peeling bark and shaggy, careless foliage made them the vagabonds among western trees. They looked like uncouth strangers strayed into a debutantes' tea party, where swayed the colorful bouffant frocks of sweet acacias and oleanders, and the lacy fringed frocks of the pepper trees, escorted by dignified palms that swayed graceful fingers in the dance.

But the Big Chief crashed on, disdainful of beauty and fragrance. Most of its passengers had risen early, restless as they neared their destination. Jaxie Cameron was one of those who still reveled in every new sight and lived every minute to the full as it passed.

She breakfasted alone, delighting in the swiftly changing scenes. The contrast with those of the previous day was almost unbelievable. It seemed impossible that in the same corner of the world—and not so widely separated—there could be stark desolation and death; then, with the suddenness of a miracle, abundant and radiant life. It was a startling revelation of the truth that out of the darkness there shall come light; out of death, life.

But through all the beautiful fabric of joy and anticipation there ran a discordant thread. She had seen Kirby Elliott nowhere this morning, though upper 6 was deserted even before she had risen. He had promised to see her before they reached Los Angeles, to take her to her hotel and arrange everything for her comfort. He had not mentioned having breakfast with her, so she went into the diner early, where the broad windows afforded her a better view of the whole country.

But she wondered why he had not wished to share with her this last meal on the train which had brought them together. Though her heart sang with a melody of love, there persisted in a lower tone a dirge of vague misgivings.

As Mose had surmised, Mrs. Sanders had been ready and waiting to leap from the train for more than an hour, as if fearing she would be left aboard by mistake. Since the train would not travel beyond Los Angeles, there could be no dire results if she were detained, but she had donned her coat and gloves, assembled her baggage, which she checked nervously every fifteen minutes, and sat primly on the edge of her seat, ready to spring forward. And rise she did, at every stop, only to be patiently informed by Mose that this was not her station. The stops were closer now, at picturesque stations of white-stucco-and-red-tile Spanish structure, gay with rampant flower borders and vines, dignified by royal palms and stately spruces.

Mrs. Sanders could not breakfast on a moving train; she would await arrival at a more tranquil place. Jake and Martha had by mutual plan and consent agreed to wait and look up a good, white-tiled cafeteria in Los Angeles.

Clarice sat at breakfast in Yola Renee's drawing room. She faced the actress with outward awe and gratitude but with a secret inward exultation. The first glamor of the situation having subsided, Clarice appreciated the material value of this providential act and faced the future with courage. Holding securely to this miraculous opportunity, she would save her heart and soul for a happier destiny and work diligently with all the beauty and strength of her body toward her goal.

Marie Bortin had regretfully agreed to Harry's suggestion that her relatives probably would be anticipating breakfast with them and would be offended if they did not await their hospitality. Suspecting that for the rest of her life she probably would never again enjoy the novelty of eating in a dining car, once she had returned home, Marie reluctantly abandoned the last of her honeymoon opportunities. She was resplendent in rose lace, with drooping-brimmed transparent hat and matching crepe slippers. She was dressed as if for a garden party, but what was the difference, if she won the admiration of her relatives? It was worth the effort.

The Misses Proctor, Yates and Colbin having practiced rigid economy all their lives, it was not hard for them to forego an extravagant breakfast on the train. They comforted themselves with the thought that they soon would arrive in a city where oranges and grapefruit were cheap.

So car 74X was represented in the diner that morning by Jaxie Cameron and Mr. Murray, who was impatient to meet his client and close a profitable deal. Having finished first, he stopped at Jaxie's table as he passed by, dropping into the chair opposite. Jaxie smiled a gracious good morning.

"Well, we'll soon be there! Tire-some trip!" His words came in puffs from his round cheeks.

"Oh, I thought it was marvelous," Jaxie protested with shining eyes. "But I suppose it does become monotonous when you travel all the time."

"And I wouldn't settle down in one spot for the rest of my life if my income would be doubled for it!" he declared. "Good lord—How men can settle down in one little house, go and come the same way at the same time every day, cut the lawn and trim the hedge, fire the furnace and clean the ashes, sleep in the same bed on the same side, year in and year out—" his gesture collapsed.

Constipated?

"For 30 years I had constipation, awful gas bloating, headaches and back pains. Adlerika helped right away. Now, I eat sausage, ham, anything I want. Never felt better." Mrs. Mahel Schott.
